President Johnson.

The Radicals complain that the President has deserted the party which elected him, and allied himself with Democrats. This is not the first time that Andrew Johnson has been compelled to separate from contemners of the Union. In 1860, when he turned his back on his southern friends in order that he might save the Union, he was charged by secessionists with being an ally of Black Republicans. But thus he rose to the occasion! We quote from his great speech in the winter of 1860:

I do not inquire what a man's antecedents have been when there is a great struggle to preserve the existence of the government: but my first inquiry is, are you for preserving this government?—Are you for maintaining the Constitution upon which it rests? If Senator Wade, or Senator anybody else, is willing to come up to this great work, either by amending the Constitution of the United States, or passing laws that will preserve and perpetuate this great Union, I am his ally and he is mine; and I say so every Senator, to every member of the House of Representatives, to every man that loves his country throughout the length and breadth of this great confederacy, if you are for preserving this Union on its great and fundamental principles, I am your ally, without reference to your antecedents or to what may take place hereafter. I say to all such men, come forward, and, like gallant knights, let us lock our shields and make common cause for this glorious people.

As in 1860, the only inquiry of Senator Johnson was, who is for preserving the Union? so, in 1865, President Johnson is the ally of every man who is for restoring the Union.

In this same great effort for the Union, made in the Senate in the winter of 1860-1, Senator Johnson placed it distinctly upon the records of the nation that it was the northern Radicals who took the lead in secession movements. Massachusetts and South Carolina began the war for disunion, and no peace will be permanent which does not embrace a victory over all these New England Radicals, as complete as that which in Connecticut has recently gladdened our hearts. We commend the following extract from Senator Johnson's speech to Black Republicans everywhere:

I went back yesterday and showed that South Carolina had held this doctrine of secession at a very early day, a very short time after she entered into the articles of confederation, and after she had entered the Union by which and through which the independence of the country was achieved. What else do we find at a very early day? Go to Massachusetts during the war of 1812, and the Hartford Convention, and there you will find men engaged in this treasonable and unhallowed work. Even in 1845, Massachusetts, in manifesting her great opposition to the annexation of Texas to the United States, passed a resolution resolving herself out of the Union. She seceded; she went off by her own act, because Texas was admitted into the Union. Thus we find South Carolina and Massachusetts taking the lead in this secession movement. We find the abolitionists proper of the North shaking the right hand of fellowship with the disunionists of the South in this work of breaking up the Union.

It is a significant fact that the first utterance, on the floor of Congress, of the right of a State to secede from the Union, was made by Josiah Quincy, a member from Massachusetts, on the proposition to erect the territory of Orleans into a State. And it is still more significant that for thus announcing the doctrine of State secession, Mr. Quincy was called to order by a delegate from Mississippi. The speaker decided the representative from Massachusetts "out of order," and on appeal therefrom by Mr. Quincy the opposition to the Democratic party in the House cast their votes solidly against the ruling of the Speaker, and he was not sustained. Every one remembers the remark of Mr. Quincy to the effect that if Louisiana was to be admitted as a State it would be the duty of Massachusetts to leave the Union, "peaceably if she can, forcibly if she must."

Johnson's efforts to restore the Union are the natural descendants of the Hartford Convention Federalists of New England. We venture the assertion that every member of the Quincy family in Massachusetts in opposing the policy of the executive.

PREDICTION OF DAVIS'S RELEASE.—The Washington correspondence of the Philadelphia Ledger writes under date of Thursday:

Let me repeat a pridiction I gave you a month or so ago, that the release of Davis is only a "question of time." From sources of information which I cannot dispute I learn that the President has no idea of bringing him to trial, but as soon as all the States are in harmonious working order with the Government the prison doors of Davis will fly open, and he will be a free man.

This, I am assured, was the intention of His Excellency long before the petitions from the respective States were poured in for his release, and these, with the action of the Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina Conventions, looking to the same end, have more than confirmed the President in his belief that the trial or further disgrace of the Rebel leaders is not demanded either for the country's good or the vindication of its honor.

A BRIGHT CHILD.—"Father, what makes Ben, our milkman, walk so funny?"

"Why, Milly, you see, he froze his feet so badly once that the doctors had to cut all his toes off."

"Indeed, father—then why is Ben like a well-known and mean-spirited soldier?"

"Really, my child, I don't know—I can't think."

"Why, don't you see?—he is a *no-toe*rious cow-herd, Ben is."

"Milly, Milly, my child—you'll get married some day."

THE CONVENTION.

On yesterday the Convention adopted a resolution to have a recess until the fourth Thursday in May next, after the adjournment of the present session. An ordinance was passed to submit the people for ratification or rejection, the ordinance passed by the Convention prohibiting slavery in North-Carolina and the ordinance repealing the ordinance of secession of the 20th May, 1861.

Some other unimportant ordinances and resolutions were adopted, and an ordinance introduced and referred to a special committee, for the protection of their [illegible] of property.

The Convention will probably adjourn to-day or to-morrow, unless some unlooked for discussion shall arise.—Standard.

Negro Lawyer in Court.—The Norfolk Day Book of a late date says:

George Cook, formerly a professor of the tensorial art, and who for years was engaged in removing the capilary kinks of our people, has taken to the law, and is now endeavoring to remove the legal kinks that so often arise between the denizens of Norfolk. Yesterday he appeared in the Mayor's Court as the counsel for one Martha Rose, a white woman, who had brought an action for the recovery of a debt. The Mayor politely but firmly refused to allow him to exercise the functions of a lawyer until he first produced a State and city license. This, he said, he could not do; but was the possessor of a United States license to practice law. His Honor informed him that the State and city license were necessary, and that without them, he was liable to a fine for practising in any of the courts of the State or corporation. Cook then retired, possibly to prepare himself for an examination.

Great Southern Mail Route.

Carrying United States Mail and Adams' Express through entirely by rail to Washington City, Baltimore Orange and Alexandria and Virginia Central Railroads. 411 miles continuous Rail, TWICE DAILY.

The Orange and Alexandria Railroad having been put in complete repair, are now running two trains daily between Washington City and Lynchburg, connecting with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Washington, the Virginia and Tennesse railroad at Lynchburg, and at Gordonsville with the Virginia Central railroad for Staunton and Richmond, which connects with the Richmond and Petersburg and Richmond and Danville railroads, and the steamers for Norfolk and Portsmouth. Passengers taking this line pass in full view of the various battle fields along the line of the Virginia Central Railroad, between Richmond and Gordonsville, and the famous fields of Manassas, Bristoe and Cedar Mountain, on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and may rely upon making close and regular connections with the lines indicated Elegant cars run upon this line, and every accommodation furnished to make the passengers comfortable.

Through passengers arriving in Richmond by the Virginia Central, Richmond and Danville, and Richmond and Petersburg Railroads, will find Garkers & Co's omnibuses to transport them between depots. Passengers have ample time to dine and sup at Gordonsville.

A FORK.—A traveler, whose feet were of prodigious size, on stopping at a country tavern for lodging, asked the landlord for a boot jack wherewith to remove his muddy boots. After surveying his feet with much deliberation, the landlord declared that there was no boot jack on the premises that would be half big enough for him.

"Perhaps you've got a forked stick, or somethin', then," suggested the traveler.

"No—there's nothing that would answer," replied the landlord.

"What's a feller to do, then?" despondingly asked the traveler.

"Oh, pull 'em on," suggested the landlord, brightening up with a new idea; "just go back, and pull 'em off with the fork of the road."

ANDY JOHNSON AND THE JOHN BROWN WORSHIPERS.—In what kind of esteem Mr. Johnson holds those who make a martyr and a "Christ" of John Brown, may be inferred from the following extract from one of his speeches; "I have got another idea in ethics," said Mr. Johnson, "and that is, that there was never any people on the face of the earth greater than the God they worshipped; and if John Brown becomes the Christ, and his gallows the cross, God deliver me from such people as they. They are fanatics, whether Democratic or Republican, or any other description of person—I care not by what name they are called."—The World.

THE PLEASURE OF INSECTS.—The poetical pen furnishes the following fanciful ideas: "Insects must generally lead a jovial life. Think what it must be to lodge in a lilly. Imagine a palace of ivory or pearl, with pillars of silver and capitals of gold, all exhaling such a perfume as never arose from human senser. Fancy, again the fun of tucking yourself up for the night in the folds of a rose, rocked to sleep by the gentle sighs of summer's but to wash yourself in a dew-drop, and fall to and eat your bed clothes."

The Election for Governor.

We were in hopes, that in the coming election for Governor there would be no opposition to the present incubent, W. W. Holden, but we see some of our Raleigh friends are determined to have a political contest and struggle for this office. Jonothan worth, Esq., has been placed in nomination in opposition to Gov. Holden. We think this is unfortunate at the present time. Whatever Governor Holden's antecedents may have been, whatever the prejudices that may, at this time, exist in the minds of many of the people against him, it cannot be denied that he has done his full duty to the people of North Carolina, during the brief administration of the affairs of this State, since he came into office, and that his influence with the President of the U. S. is such as eminently recommend him io our favorable consideration as the most suitable candidate to fill this responsible position.

Gov. Holden was made an officer of the State by the President, charged with high duties and fearful responsibilities, at a time when we were, so to speak, in a State of chaos. He, as his record will show, has devoted all the faculties of his soul to the interest of our whole people—he has labored incessently to repair damages, to preserve order, to restore harmony, civil law, and the blessings of liberty to our State. He was charged with reorganizing the State government, who will say he has not done his work, so far most effectually and satisfactorily to the General Government? We believe he has the confidence of the Prasident, which is a matter of immense importance to us in casting our votes for a Governor. We greatly need his influence, if we will not accept him for his ability. We know of no man in the State who is, in every way, better qualified to carry us through our present troubles. His past Gubernatorial acts are a sufficient guarantee of his future fidelity. We can see no good reason why he should not be supported. Who will we get to fill the place better! Who will we get that possesses the confidence of the President to such a degree, or that can use the same influence in our favor? No man in North Carolina Then what will we gain by turning Mr. Holden out? Nothing, but we shall lose much. We are opposed to it, because, we believe, the interest of our State and people will be greatly subserved by continuing Governor Holden in office—it absolutely demands it—our early readmission into the Union depends upon it, in no small degree.

We have no disposition, whatever, to take an active part in the coming campaign, but, we feel it our duty to say this much in favor of Governor Holden, and in regard to the great importance of giving him a hearty support.

The following card was sent us from Raleigh, with request to publish. We do so, with this simple remark, that Jonathan Worth makes a very good State Treasurer. As to his qualifications for governor, we shall have more to say hereafter:

The friends of Jonathan Worth Esq., have requested us to announce that he will be supported throughout the State at the approaching election for Governor of North Carolina.

NEW BOOKS.

We have received from Messrs. Sterling & Albright, the publishers, Our Own Fourth Reader, and Our Own Spelling Book, published since the war, which we take pleasure in recommending to teachers generally. They are gotten up in a style equally well as any Northern books, and, we think better adapted to our schools than any books with which we are acquainted. These, as well as the whole series of School Books, from this enterprising house, may be seen at the Banner Office.

ELECTIONS.

The elections for Governor, Representatives to Congress, and Members of Assembly, Sheriffs and Clerks, will take place on Thursday, the 9th day of November, 1865.—Standard.

Proceedings of the Convention.

We have not received any thing later from the Convention than what appeared in the Banner yesterday morning. We have given all the proceedings of this body up to date and shall continue to do so, even at the risk of boring many of our readers. There is nothing remarkable, however, about this body, if we except its great tenacity of life, and its inordinate disposition to meddle with the ordinary subjects of legislation. We expected this body would go to Raleigh, make the desired changes in the organic law, dissolve, and go home, leaving the ordinary subjects of legislation to bodies having legitimate cognizance of them. This has been the course pursued by Conventions of other States. Not so with North Carolina. She must go further, and when her Convention does adjourn, it will not be sine die, but to some fixed day. May the Lord have mercy upon her talented members, for we fear the people will not.

GENERAL NEWS.

One of the proiminent memebers of the South Carolina State Convention, recently in session, was General McGowan, one of the bravest of the Confederate officers. In a speech before that body said:

It is not true that South Carolina carries a dagger underneath her vestments. She went out of the Union with an open hand and an open heart, and she is going back into the Union with an open hand and an open heart. She has lost all her material resources, but she has not lost honor; and she returns to the sisterhood of States, with full determination to be true and loyal in word and deed.

A dispatch from Cairo, Ill., to the Tribune, says: It is understood that the Military Commission to try the Hon. Emerson Etheridge, will adjourn for several days.

Efforts are being made to change the place of trial to Memphis.

Fatal Accident in Wisconsin.

A telegram states that:

At Onalaska, in La Crosse County, Sunday, nine persons were buried in the ruins of Gabriel Knitelt's brewery and dwelling, which was crushed by the weight of barley stored in the loft.—Seven persons were rescued, more or less injured, one person killed and one yet missing.

The New York Herald, of Tuesday, says: The bridge on the East Tennessee and Virginia railroad over the Holston river is completed, thus establishing direct communication between Chattanooga and Washington. The Cincinnatians are troubled lest trade may thus be diverted from their city.

The Supreme Court of Oregon has decided that all State taxes must be paid in gold.

The scarcity of butter can be remedied by spreading it thin.

The Chicago Tribune says there is a mania for killing negroes in Union county, Illinoise.

It is understood that the National Intelligencer of Washington city, is to be the official organ of the Administration.

The newspaper publishers of Southern Illinois are in Convention, "for the purpose of self protection from all kinds of swindlers."

General William J. Hardee is living, for the present, on the plantation of his wife, in Alabama.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Republican says that Mr. Aiken, one of Mrs. Surratt's counsel, is writing her life.

Capt. Wilson, a well kown citizen of Nashville, was found murdered near that city on the Chattanooga railroad recently.

The splendid mansion and grounds of Geo. H. Stuart, called Spring Brook, near Philadelphia, was sold at auction and purchased by Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, for $76,000.

The Mississippi Cetnral Railroad will be in running order from Memphis in a few days, when passengers can reach New Orleans in 40 hours after leaving the former city.

The Mobile Advertiser, of the 19th, says over 17,000 bales of cotton have been brought to that market during the past week. These are tolerably heavy receipts. Flat-boats are becoming quite an institution in our waters. There seems to be an evident disposition to run flat against steamboats. 2,017 have reached this point by these fast sailing crafts.

Sixty amnesty pardons were granted on Saturday, all of them to parties hailing from Alabama.

The President has recognized the following Consuls for Hayti: F. Usher of New York, B. C. Clark of Boston, and Albert Emerson of Bangor.

Gen. Thos. Francis Meagher arrived at Salt Lake City, in Utah, on the sixteenth of September on his way to his new home in Montana. He was serenaded by the mormons.

Mr. Dimitry, one of the editors of the Richmond Bulletin, recently ordered under arrest by the military authorities of that city, has been discharged from custody.

The Raleigh National Bank, of Raleigh, North Carolina, and the second National Bank of Boltimore, Maryland, have been designated as depositories of public moneys, by the Treasurer of the United States.

Montreal papers state it is believed that John H. Surratt, the person charged with having been one of Booth's accomplices in the plot to assassinate President Lincoln, took passage from the first named city in the steamer St George, which sailed a few days ago for Glasgow.

General Banks addressed a large meeting of the citizens of Lawrence, Massachusetts, on Monday evening. He thought the policy of President Johnston was altogether too lenient, and declared that the change of policy occasioned by the death of President Lincoln, could not be otherwise than disastrous to the country.

The report that the Hon W. L. Yancey, of Alabama, died from the effects of a fall received in the late Confederate Senate, during a squabble with one of his colleagues, Hill, of Georgia, is destitute of truth.

The Kentucky delegation, headed by the Hon. Garrett Davis, obtained an interview with the President on Sunday morning, and urged the removal of Gen. Palmer with much earnestness.—The President, it is understood, has referred the whole matter to Gen. Thomas for investigation, declining to interfere until that gentleman makes a report upon the subject.

It is said that Mr. Jas. R. Hood, the Chatanooga member of the Tennessee Legislature, is preparing, with five other members, articles of impeachment against Gov. Brownlow, upon the ground that he has illegally appointed Justices of the peace and other officers contrary to the laws of the State. The action of Mr Hood and his colleagues will doubtless lead to an interesting and exciting discussion in the Legislature.

The House of Representatives of the Tennessee Legislature adopted the following resolution by a vote of sixty to four:

Resolved, That we endorse the administration of His Excellency, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, especially his declaration that treason shall be made odious and traitors punished.

Georgia.

The Savannah papers of the 7th contain the following:

Gen. Steadman has issued a document that all orders relating to contracts between individuals, except those which interest freedmen or determining the right, title or possession of property of any description whatever, except property owned or claimed by the Government, are hereby suspended and all officers on duty in this department are prohibited from adjudicating questions of contracts or conflicting claims to property, except when necessary to protect the rights and interests of the government.

The Georgia State railroad was turned over to the State on the 26th ult. The United States very liberally proposed to furnish running stock, machinery, tools, &c. The commissioners took seven Locomotives, two stationary engines, 100 box and 50 platform cars, and could have obtained more had they asked for them. Car-shops and all necessary machinery were also secured. This stock is an advance made to the road by the Government at prices exceedingly liberal. The commissioners let out contracts for building fourteen bridges on the road, to be completed by the 15th of December. These contracts were all given to Georgians.

North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company.

THE following statement of the condition of the N. C. Mutual Life Insurance Company will show that after all the vicissitudes of the war, the Company is still strong, and merits the continuance of the patronage heretofore so generously bestowed.

Assets.

Premium Notes liable to assessment,	$129,198
Bonds of solvent individuals	23,004
		$152,202

Liabilities.

Losses allowed up to January, 1, 1865		$35,249
Excess of assets over liabilities		$116,953

To meet the above liabilities, the Directors have ordered the collection of the individual bonds, and an assessment of 20 per cent. on the premium notes, which should yield.

Bonds	$23,004
Assessments	25,839
		$48,843
Losses		35,248
An excess of		$3,694

Sufficient to cover all deficiencies.

If the Company shall be patronized by the public as before the war, there will be the annual profits in cash and premium notes which may be add d to the assets now in hand, for the payment of liabilities.

Nearly all the above liabilities would have been extinguished but for the refusal of claimants to receive the currency in circulation at the time of the losses. They cannot reasonably complain of some delay. It will be remembered that the premium notes are the accumulations of notes given by insurers for one half their annual premiums, which the Company had the right to require to be paid in cash. On the face of the note the insurer promises to pay whenever requested by the Directors; and all payments on assessments will be so much added to the sum insured, by diminishing to that amount the premium note to be deducted in case of loss. Many insurers pay the whole premium in cash as a matter of choice. It is believed that the losses may be paid by the first instalment of ten per cent added to the contemplated profits; but it is the firm intention of the directors to meet all their liabilities as promptly as the condition of the country will admit, even if to do so, it may be necessary to order the collection of all the premium notes

The Cholera in the East—A Fearful Description of the Plague.

A correspondent of the Washington Chronicle, writing from Constantinople on the 18th of September, furnishes some interesting facts concerning the late cholera scourge in that city and the East generally. From the medical and official reports he computes the total number of deaths by the plague in Constantinople to be fully 50,000. During the six weeks of its ravages there, business was completely suspended and the only occupation of the living seemed to have been the burial of the dead. In Stamboul the bodies were carried down in large barges, containing fifty or sixty bodies at a time. Thousands went to bed in perfect health and were corpses next morning. Among the Turks it was particularly fatal, because of their vegetable diet, their wretched tenements, the dark and filthy streets and quarters in which they live, and their obstinate aversion to medicine. In many cases their fatalism was so intense that they refused to take any precaution, or adopt any remedies, believing that it was God's will that they should die, and that no human skill could baffle the decrees of destiny. An immense accumulation of filth in one quarter of the city densely populated was saturated by the rain and subsequently "festered in the sun," until it sent forth the most deadly effluvia, which, borne on the hot wind, carried almost instant death in its track. People were attack with violent colics, vomiting, diarrhea, and cramps, resulting in death. Such was the corruption of the atmosphere that the poultry were all struck dead, and phosphorus matches decomposed and would not light.

The starting point of this fearful desolation seems to have been at the great Pilgrim gathering at Mecca, which occurs once in thirty-three years, and gathers pilgrims from all parts of the East. Upwards of 400,000 devotees were convened at the shrine of the prophets this year, and at least one-half of them were swept away by the terrible destroyer.—Of 12,500 pilgrims from India, but 2,300 survived. Twenty-seven thousand corpses were left unburied in the streets of Died dah, the seaport of Mecca, by the returning pilgrims, and the whole route from Constantinople through the desert to Mecca was covered with thousands upon thousands of dead bodies. As the pilgrims returned to their respective countries they carried the pestilence with them. The caravan had hardly reached the gates of Damascus before the cholera booke out there, and in a few days the deaths were two and three hundred daily. Thence it spread to neighboring localities. The total mortality in the Turkish empire cannot fall short of 350,000.

A Great Outrage.

We learn that on Saturday night last, about two o'clock, some armed negroes made an attack on the front door of Harry O. Parker, Esq., residing some three miles South of this city, with intent to break in. Mr. Parker rose in his night clothes, got his double barrelled gun, and when the robbers broke through one of the pannels of the door, he aimed and attempted to shoot, but the cap was defective, and the gun did not go off. The robbers then drew off, appeared to consult with some comrades at his front gate, and soon they went round to the back door, broke in, took Mr. Parker out in the yard, struck him over the head with a musket, and whipped him with heavy switches. They then sent him some fifty yards from his house, while they went in and plundered. They stole money, wearing apparel, bed clothes, bacon, brandy, and everything they could take with them. Mrs. Parker, who fled to the kitchen for safety, was insulted and roughly treated by these desperate characters.

Mr. Parker, who is a most worthy and loyal citizen, repaired to Raleigh about day break and informed Governor, Holden of the outrage. The Governor immediately ordered Col. J. P. H. Russ, the Sheriff of Wake, to collect a force pursue the robbers, arrest them, and deliver them to the authorities for punishment; and he also called on the Provost Marshal to aid in their arrest. Both the Sheriff and Provost Marshal promptly responded, and we sincerely trust that these criminals may be caught and speedily and severely punished.—Raleigh Standard.

A letter from Alabama states it to be the declaration of nearly all the planters that unless some better means are adopted for controlling the negro, his labor cannot be depended upon for the coming season, and therefore they will make no preparation for planting more than will yield them a sustenance."

Rogues and Roguery.

We are informed by a reliable gentlemen connected with the North Carolina Railroad, that there is an organised band of rogues who infest that road, making Raleigh their headquarters, and commit depredations on persons travelling on the road almost every day—or rather every night. They are Federal soldiers who belonged to a regiment that has been mustered out of service, and have returned here, some of them dressed in Confederate uniform and some in citizens clothes. Their plan of operations is to stand round on the arrival of trains and offer their services to strangers who may enquire the way to different places, and conduct them to some out-of-the way place and rob them.—Some of them enter the cars on the arrival of the trains and seize upon anything they can lay their hand on. Their victims are most generally among the negroes traveling on the road, but on Friday night last they robbed an old gentleman from the vicinity of Durhams depot, taking from him about forty dollars in money and his hat. Bales of cotton are frequently disappearing at the Raleigh depot, no doubt through the agency of this gang, assisted, perhaps, by some of the idle blacks constantly loitering in that vicinity.

We call the attention of the authorities to this matter, and also caution strangers and others to be on their guard against these rogues.

Ral. Standard.

Singular Casualty.—An old lady named Jackson, residing near Winston, met with a singular death, on Tuesday last. She was in the bay-meadow, and was about to return home upon the wagon, in front of which she had perched herself. The horses starting suddenly, she lost her hold, and was pitched off upon the ground. She laid motionless where she fell, and upon being lifted up by her companions, they found to their surprise that she was dead.—It is supposed by some that the cervical vertebræ were dislocated, but no inquest was held. By the way, who is Coroner now, or have we any such officer at all? If not, it is high time that such an appointment be made.—Winston Sentinel.

The Only Resource.—A good one is told of one of the wealthiest men in Columbus. After General Wilson's raid the gentleman was overwhelmed by his immense losses, and to a party thus expressed himself: Gentlemen, I am ruined; the hard earnings of years gone in a moment. My negroes and all are gone, and all I have in the world to depend upon is seven hundred bales of cotton.—Columbus Sun.

'TIS NOT A FABLE.

The immense and universal demand for the Fragrant Sozodont, is a marvel in the Annals of Dentistry? It exceeds that of all other dentifrices combined. Neither acid from the stomach, nor any other corresponding element generated by indigestion, can effect a set of teeth regularly purified by this Fragrant Vegetable, antiseptic and preservative.
